ABSTRACT

A method for representing audio data in a format that can be merged with video data, where the audio data includes a sequence of audio information elements. The method includes replacing each audio information element in the sequence with a unique corresponding color from a color palette.

7

60248216_1.DOC